RE: JEFF STREET

Jeff was employed by the Home Office in early 2005 primarily to help develop the Programme Office disciplines required on a multi million pound programme for the development of Shared Services for HR, finance and procurement.

The core skills we were looking for were a dynamic individual who is able to operate in a fluid cultural environment with very senior civil servant stakeholders, directors and senior managers and also to be able to operate effectively with a myriad of regulatory frameworks and compliance requirements expected by the Home Office and the Office of Government Commerce (OGC).

Jeff fitted this profile and brought into the role, very quickly, the facility to understand and track our key stakeholders and the required collateral of products that enabled the programme to go through independent assurance reviews (Gateway Reviews) undertaken by the Office of Government Commerce that demonstrated and ensured programme integrity and delivery towards an approved plan.

He has a challenging and inquisitive manner that has proved useful in guiding the programme management team towards the planned goals.

Jeff has also recruited able programme office staff who will remain with the programme team.

I have found Jeff to be an intelligent, honest and diligent individual who is enthusiastic and gets on with all his team colleagues.

I appreciate his contribution and will be very sorry to see him depart the programme. His technical abilities are strong and he has been eager to share his experience and transfer skills to Home Office staff working in the team.

Although we are sorry to see him leave the team, we would have no hesitation in employing him in the future.

Yours sincerely

Tony Fasusi
Deputy Programme Director
